THE New York Central Railroad Directors have publicly denied that they were informed, in advance, of the decision of their tax case by Commissioner Pleasanton, and insist that they learned it only improbable, but the persistent rascalities of these great railway monopolies, their dicial purity, with every form of public and private honor, their bold frauds, their mischievous combinations, their dishonest stock speculations, leave little assurance

THE case of the bigamist Bowen of South Carolina, is taken up by his Republican friends and enemies, and both are hard at work, one to get him safely into the penitentiary, the other to get him back into Congres. In a moral aspect the objects of the two are more nearly identieffect or possibility of areignation in the two situations. The one thing that lends interest, if not respectability, to Bowen, is the fact that his present wife is the daughter of the only man that has lived who had any claim whatever on the respect of anybody outside of that State.

THE Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the judgment of our Circuit Court, that Mr. Levi Sparks, the Mayor of Jefferson-Southern Penitentiary last winter, vacated the latter office by the acceptance of the other, thus leaving the institution in the control of the Republicans, Curry and Heiskill, and settling the Warden contest in favor of Colonel Shuler. Such a depreme bench is not to be swayed by party feelings from its convictions, nor toward convictions that don't rest in the law. Half of the judges believed the Mayor's office to be a "judicial office" within the meaning of the constitution, and its occu-pant, therefore, prohibited from holding another during his legal term. All of them held that it was a "lucrative office" within the meaning of the constitution and therefore not to be held at 'the same time with another "lucrative office" by the same man. A decision to precisely the same effect in the case of Gulick against Wallace raised a mighty clamor of "partisan influences" against the bench among the Republicans once, by oustin the Republican (at that time) Sheriff. Now that it ousts a Democratic director it is accepted as pleasantly as most men accept the "goring" of somebody else's "ox" by their bull.

A Butler Among the Pyramids.

An American missionary in Egypt, Rev.
David Strang, writes to the New York Independent an account of the conduct of our Consul General there, Mr. George Butler, anephew of General Butler, which ought to be more thoroughly appreciated than it seems likely to be. This "nephew of his uncle," exhibited his first display of family genius, in his new office, by selling all his subordinate appointments so as to make a "good thing." Then, in his visits through the country, he enlivened the dullness of the Fellah villages with the performances of dancing girls always to be found along the Nile and improve on the prevailing fashion by having them stripped naked, concluding with such a "good time" as such a man would be apt to find in such company. He has further illustrated his office and his country by prosecuting a monstrous claim based upon a gross fraud. It is not to be suppos that the President or Secretary Fish don't know this, and what must one think of them if, knowing it, they allow this beastly, rascally whelp to remain in office? His character was well known, most offensively notorious, long before he was nomina-ted for this place. Why did the President send in his name? Why did the Senate confirm him? Every man who structed for that confirmation is partly responsible for the disgrace it has brought sponsible for the disgrace it has brought upon the country. Were they afraid of the ready, unscrupulous, victorous, villainous uncle? Are they afraid of him now, that none of them will move in an effort to displace this national nuisance? It is a pleasant commentary on the dignity and integrity of the Senate, that the fear of such a political bravo as Butler, can force it to give an important foreign office to a creature especially designed by nature, and perfected by sedulous cultivation, for the bully of a brothel. A Democratic administration once brought a Democratic is almost unnecessary to sa minister, Edward A. Hannegan, of this less dog has found friends,

"shortest order," when his conduct, in no Can you de You might degree so reprehensible as Butler's, affected the dignity and honor of the nation. Gen. Grant ought to take a hint from Mr. Polk. If he don't. the people may conclude to give him a hint that he won't like. Such things as this appointment does a President who wants to be re-elected more mischief than a long catalogue of judicious actions will repair.

With this disposition of a sample argument we leave the case, remarking that The News is no "Radical organ," or Democratic organ, or any other organ. What it cal than the objects of hostile parties usu-ally are, but there is a difference in the that the attitude of the Democracy to the thinks right it says, and means to keep national currency and debt seriously injures the national credit. It is but a few months since a leading English paper cited the utterances of Democratic speakers and papers as an explanation of the in South Carolina, in the last fifty years, inferior credit of the United States to that of countries with less than a tithe of its wealth, power and prospects. The administration has done foolish things, and mischievous things, and will do them Mr. Levi Sparks, the Mayor of Jefferson-ville, who was elected a director of the national debt more than $200,000,000, reduced taxes $85,000,000, a year and made a peace where the Sentinel seemed eager to force a war that would have doubled the debt and taxes too. Against its demerits let this set off stand, as it may fairly stand.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad.

Jesse L. Williams, Receiver of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company, has made his final report and account as such, and has been discharged from the duties thereof by an order of the Circuit Court of the United States, for the Western District of Michigan. J. K. Edgerton, in his official announcement of the same, says the contract now in force between the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company and Continental Improvement Company, obligates the latter to complete and equip, at its own cost, the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad with all its structures, material and appurtenances, including station grounds and right of way, suitable for a first-class railroad, from its terminus in this city to Little Traverse Bay, Michigan, 330 miles, by June 3, 1874, in consideration of which the Continental Improvement Company has the right, during the period of construction, to operate the road, receiving its earnings, etc., but will pay all expenses for running the same. This road north of Paris, its present northern terminus, 200 miles from Fort Wayne, is being pushed forward rapidly.

because he did not acknowledge the divinity of Christ, but retained for his scholarship recently spoke at Birmingham with reference to the labor of revision. He said: "The public might rely on it they would receive at the hands of the revisers a greatly improved version of the Scriptures. It would take a long time—it was thought it would take five or six years—to revise the New Testament, and even longer to revise the Old but when it was remembered how great a multitude of people were interested in the work, and that the work might live one or two hundred years, the length of time must not be grudged. So far as they had gone, the new version satisfied him extremely, and in this respect, that it read like the old one. There were changes in almost every verse—in some verses several—some more important than others, but all tending to a more exact representation than the original; but, notwithstanding these numerous changes, it was the wish of the company to adhere as closely as possible to the old style, with which the people had been familiar from their childhood. The consequence was, the new version read extremely well, measuring it by the standard of the old one, and en hearing it read would harrily know it was a version."

Travelling in Italy many years ago, we visited some of the large dairy farms in the neighborhood of Ferara. Interspersed among much of the low lying, unhealthy land, remarkable for the prevalence on it of very fatal forms of anthrax in the summer season, are fine thidulating pasture lands, and the fields are of great extent. We happened to stop at a farm house one fine autumn afternoon when the cows were about to be milked. A herd of over one hundred was grazing homeward.

The women took their positions with stool and pail close to the house, and as the cows approached, names were called out which, at first, we thought, were addressed to the milk maids. Rosa, Florenza, Giulia, Sposs, and many names, which were noted by us at the time, were called out by the overseer or one of the women, and we were astonished to see cow after cow cease feeding of chewing the cud and make direct, sometimes at a trot, for the woman that usually milked her.

The practice, we found, was not confined to one farm, all the cows on each farm knew their respective names, and took up their position, just as readily as the individual members of some large herds in this country turning from the fields to take up their places in the sheds.—[London Milk Journal.

After half a dozen cases of hydrophobia the owners of dogs and the authorities will probably take the matter in hand. Every unmuzzled dog seen away from its home should be shot at sight. A Strange Case. About a year ago a child, then a year and half old, whose parents reside in this city, wallowed a thimble, one of the open top style, and ever since has swallowed nothing but liquids, mostly milk. It is healthy, rugged and fat. The supposition is that the thimble caught somewhere in the asophagus but eighteen doctors have searched in vain for it. Everything of a solid nature is immeliately thrown up if an attempt is made to swallow it. It is one of the strangest cases face terribly cut up. Two teeth were knocked out, his upper lip split open, an ugly cut upon his forehead and other bruises upon his side, all done by the boot of some brute. Building.

Just before noon to-day, those who happened to be in the neighborhood of the Court House were startled with the cry of "Murder, murder, Jesus Christ!" etc., from a man at work upon the new county office building, west of the old building. The cry emanated from a relative of Ephraim Colestock, a well known carpenter and contractor, who had fallen from the summit of the building to the ound, a distance of about twenty-five feet. A large number of the Masonic fraternity went out to the celebration at Crawfordsville this morning.

He is an old grey-haired man, very heavy and fleshy, and the wonder is that he was not instantly killed. He struck a two-inch pine plank which rested with one end on the ground and the other upon the door sill, breaking it in two, and splitting a one-inch-board that was under it. His injuries may prove fatal, but time alone will tell.

The Evening News, of Indianapolis, is far as we are aware, the only daily news; per which devotes a regular column to insuance items and information. Almost ever day The News publishes from half a column to two columns of insurance news, and containly evinces considerable discrimination its selections. We refer to the subject because of the marked contrast presented by this little paper in central Indiana to the heavy and dignified dailies everywhere, who editors look upon insurance as a sort of excesence, or else ignore it as unworthy contice. And, of the two classes of paper if ought not to take officers long to choos with which to do their advertising.
